The Angels and Foundation Building Materials (FBM) have announced that they have entered into a partnership in which FBM will become the Official Jersey Patch Partner of the Angels. The collaboration brings together two Southern California brands who have established deep roots in the local community and beyond.

“We are excited to welcome Foundation Building Materials to the Angels Partner Family and feature the FBM logo on the sleeve of our jerseys,” said Angels Executive Vice President, Dana Wells. “As local family-run businesses, we share similar values for family and the community. We look forward to working together as partners going forward.”

Along with in-stadium, digital and radio advertising, as well as hospitality at Angel Stadium and Angels road games, the centerpiece of the partnership will see the company’s logo proudly featured on the sleeve of all on-field Angels players, manager and coaches’ jerseys. The logo features a lone Cypress Tree, representing something built, established, or grown on a firm foundation, able to withstand the test of time and prevail. The rectangular FBM logo will share the same red and navy colors as the Angels official colors since the team’s inaugural season in 1961.

2023 will be the first season that Major League Baseball will permit Clubs to have sponsor logos on the sleeve of their on-field jerseys. The Angels announcement is the fourth of its kind in MLB, following the San Diego Padres, Boston Red Sox and Arizona Diamondbacks.

The Los Angeles Angels joined Major League Baseball as an expansion team in 1961 and have since gone on to win nine American League Western Division Championships, host three All-Star games and capture the 2002 World Series Championship. Over its 62-year history, the franchise also boasts six
